

A Suggestion that's Worth Following.

This time—instead of trying another washerwoman—try the Tolman Laundry, for the family wash.

You know you are not satisfied now—with the condition in which your clothes come home—dingy, and odorous; half done; probably something missing, more than likely something torn—nothing really right.

The Tolman Laundry will send them home snowy white; absolutely clean; sweet-smelling; thoroughly washed; carefully ironed—every piece accounted for; without flaw—and on time.

Don't be prejudiced against laundry work. If you've got the idea that everything is washed in a bunch—with high-pressure machinery—in a slap-bang fashion, without judgment or discrimination—you've got the wrong notion.

Your wash in the Tolman Laundry will be done as separately as if done in your own home—and it will be done by experts, who know how to handle textiles—how to get the soil out without putting holes in. The flannels will be returned to you with all the fluffiness of new; the table damask with the pattern as distinct as the day you bought it; the bed clothes evenly ironed and clean and white—and so on—every piece as it should be.

Instead of wearing out your clothes—YOU'LL FIND THEY WILL LAST LONGER DONE UP IN THE TOLMAN WAY.

They'll be glad to have you go through their plant and see for yourself exactly how the work is done. If you come you'll send the family wash. At least phone for one of their lady representatives to come to see you—and answer any questions you want to ask—Main 2590.
